Serangoon Gardens was formerly a residential estate for the British soldiers, where some of them were based in the nearby RAF (Royal Air Force) Chia Keng Camp, until the early seventies. Serangoon Gardens is fondly known as ang sar lee (ç°çç ,ãŽ~) by the local Chinese, referring to the red zinc roofs of the houses that once occupied this estate.

The most prominent landmarks of Serangoon Gardens are perhaps the Serangoon Garden Circus and the popular Chomp Chomp Food Centre, which serves delicious local delights in BBQ stingray, BBQ chicken wings, satay and Hokkien mee. The origin of the name Chomp Chomp is unknown; perhaps it was used to reflect the noise of frenzied eating. Chomp Chomp Food Centre had a major upgrading in 1998 where a new roof was installed.

This tastefully renovated bungalow is seated in a prime location, with super shopping conveniences and excellent traffic connectivity. It is near to the famous Chomp Chomp Food Center, but yet not too near for comfort.
